although social psychology has been traditionally focused on interpersonal relationships the cognitive revolution in psychology has had the effect of refocusing some social psychology on intra psychic processes this area of psychology has become very popular in recent years yet there is currently no other textbook available for the study of the self republished in its original form by psychology press in 2007 this book carefully documents the changing conceptions and the value accorded the self in psychology over time it further outlines the many alternative conceptions of this increasingly central domain in social psychology new research and conceptions are juxtaposed with the classic and traditional providing the reader with a comprehensive introduction to the study of the self the self refers to individual identity the philosophy of self is the study of the subjective and objective qualities that define an individuals uniqueness or characteristics that define them as being unique the self or identity can be described in subjective or objective terms the concepts of self have unique applications in the areas of artificial intelligence philosophy medicine computer science and the technological concept of singularity the subjective concept of self is the center of much controversy in the study of consciousness from theology to cosmology this book is designed to be a state of the art superb academic reference work and provide an overview of the topic and give the reader a structured knowledge to familiarize yourself with the topic at the most affordable price possible the accuracy and knowledge is of an international viewpoint as the edited articles represent the inputs of many knowledgeable individuals and some of the most current knowledge on the topic based on the date of publication widely regarded as the authoritative reference in the field this volume comprehensively reviews theory and research on the self leading investigators address this essential construct at multiple levels of analysis from neural pathways to complex social and cultural dynamics coverage includes how individuals gain self awareness agency and a sense of identity self related motivation and emotion the role of the self in interpersonal behavior and self development across evolutionary time and the lifespan connections between self processes and psychological problems are also addressed new to this edition incorporates significant theoretical and empirical advances nine entirely new chapters coverage of the social and cognitive neuroscience of self processes self regulation and health self and emotion and hypoegeic states such as mindfulness this study explores the relationship between the individual person the self the divine and other people in the writings of the apostle paul and the roman stoic epictetus it does so by examining self involving actions expressed with reflexive pronouns myself yourself etc in various kinds of sentences for example examine yourself and you do not belong to yourself after situating the topic within the fields of linguistics and ancient greek the study then examines the reflexive constructions in epictetus s discourses showing that reflexive texts express fundamental aspects of his ethic of rational self interest in imitation of the indwelling rational deity next the investigation examines the 109 reflexive constructions in paul providing an exegesis of each reflexive text and then synthesizing the results paul s reflexive phrases are essential statements of his theology and ethics expressing an interconnected narrative christology narrative apostolic identity and narrative ethic most importantly the study finds that for epictetus concern for others is a rational means to self realization whereas for paul concern for others is a community ethic grounded in the story of the indwelling christ and is the antithesis of self interest in this wide ranging and thought provoking analysis of the sociocultural and personal meanings of food and eating deborah lupton explores the relationship between food and embodiment the emotions and subjectivity she includes discussion of the intertwining of food meaning and culture in the context of childhood and the family as well as the gendered social construction of foodstuffs food tastes dislikes and preferences the dining out experience spirituality and the civilized body she draws on diverse sources including representations of food and eating in film literature advertising gourmet magazines news reports and public health literature and her own empirical research into people s preferences memories experiences more than ten years on from its original publication concepts of the self still mesmerizes with its insight comprehensiveness and critique of debates over the self in the social sciences and humanities anthony elliot has written a new preface to this third edition to address some of the most recent developments in the field and offers a powerful challenge to what he describes as the emergence of anti theories of the self the first two editions have proven exceptionally popular among students and teachers worldwide anthony elliot provides a scintillating introduction to the major accounts of the self from symbolic interactionism and psychoanalysis to post feminism and postmodernism this new edition has been extensively revised and updated to take account of more recent theoretical developments and a new chapter has been added on individualization which focuses on how the self becomes an agent of do it yourself autobiographical reconstruction in an age of intensive globalization concepts of the self remains the most lively lucid and compelling introduction to contemporary controversies over the self and self identity in the social sciences and humanities written by an author of international reputation it connects debates about the self directly to identity politics the sociology of personal relationships and intimacy and the politics of sexuality and will continue to be an invaluable introductory text for students in of social and political theory sociology social psychology cultural studies and gender studies

if there is one value that seems beyond reproach in modernity it is that of the self and the terms that cluster around it such as self esteem self confidence and self respect it is not clear however that all those who invoke the self really know what they are talking about or that they are all talking about the same thing what is this thing called self then and what is its psychological philosophical and educational salience more specifically what role do emotions play in the creation and constitution of the self this book proposes a realist emotion grounded conception of selfhood in arguing for a closer link between selfhood and emotion than has been previously suggested the author critically explores and integrates self research from diverse academic fields this is a provocative book that should excite anyone interested in cutting edge research on self issues and emotions that lies at the intersection of psychology philosophy of mind moral philosophy and moral education what are the characteristics and dimensions of the self is there a best way to measure the self how does the researcher s definition of the self affect the choice of research measure and methods these are the questions addressed by this book unlike previous books on the self this one provides a systematic analysis of the theoretical and methodological issues involved it offers a description of several alternative methods for studying the self and discussions of the advantages and disadvantages of these different approaches emphasized here are the phenomenological and experiential nature of the self its multidimensionality and hierarchical structure and the relationship between defining and measuring the self among the methodological issues addressed are the impact of significant others on the self the factors that affect the process of reporting about the self between group comparison of self structure the structure of the self in relationship to others and the effects of differing cultural contexts self regulation theory focuses on the ways in which individuals direct and monitor their activities and emotions in order to attain their goals this text presents recent developments in health psychology research covering topics such as representational beliefs anxiety and personality the idea of the self is immediately familiar to everyone yet elusive to define and understand from pioneering researcher roy f baumeister this volume synthesizes a vast body of knowledge to provide a panoramic view of the human self how it develops and functions why it exists and what problems it encounters on the journey through life what are the benefits of self knowledge and how attainable is it do we have one self or many what is the relationship of self and society in 28 concise chapters baumeister explains complex concepts with clarity and insight he reveals the central role played by the self in enabling both individuals and cultures to thrive examine the inner workings of the mind and learn what consciousness and a sense of self really means and if it even exists we re used to thinking about the self as an independent entity something that we either have or are in the ego tunnel philosopher thomas metzinger claims otherwise no such thing as a self exists the conscious self is the content of a model created by our brain an internal image but one we cannot experience as an image everything we experience is a virtual self in a virtual reality but if the self is not real why and how did it evolve how does the brain construct it do we still have souls free will personal autonomy or moral accountability in a time when the science of cognition is becoming as controversial as evolution the ego tunnel provides a stunningly original take on the mystery of the mind seminar paper from the year 2019 in the subject didactics for the subject english pedagogy literature studies grade 2 university of applied sciences burgenland language english abstract the paper s primary concern is to outline strategies which teachers could use in order to support students in becoming self regulated by using language learning strategies maria montessori was one of the first pedagogues who emphasized independence a degree of student autonomy and learning strategies that highlight learning through action rather than lecture children have been seen as naturally eager for knowledge thus children are capable of initiating learning in a supportive thoughtfully prepared learning environment based on pedagogical observations it was discovered that children who were free to choose and act without restrictions within an environment prepared according to montessori s model would act spontaneously for optimal development unfortunately it is frequently observable that modern phenomena such as portable phones computers and television are a constant distraction even for young children and consequently tend to impede the students learning of self regulation the studies presented here in this work have a central point of departure it is remarkable that we as biological organisms in a social world configure our lives in terms of selves this book succeeds in brining together different but related disciplines concerned with people and the histories and conditions of their lives the answer worked out to the central question addressed is thus an optimistic one in that it shows the niche for knowledge of human nature and the texts that enfold lives and of cause effect links and meaningful things moving beyond previous scholarship he gives us a locke as much concerned with the effective functioning of government as with the roots of its moral legitimacy book jacket
